POETRY.

PARTING SONG.

BY ELIZA COOK.

Come, let us part with lightsome heart,
Nor breathe one chiding sigh,
To think that wings of rainbow plume
So soon should learn to fly.
We scarcely like the chimes to strike
That tell of Pleasure's flight,
But Friendship's chain, when severed thus
Is sure to re-unite.
Then why not we as merry be,
Though this song be the last,
As bright as those just past!

The wild bird's song is loud and long,
But the sweetest and the best
Is whistled as he leaves the bough
To seek his lonely nest.
The sun's rich ray shines through the day,
But flashes deeper still
While darting forth his farewell ray
Behind the western hill.
Then why not we as merry be,
In this, our parting strain,
For, like the bird and sun, we'll come
With joy and warmth again.

The moments fled, like violets dead,
Shall never lose their power;
For grateful perfume ever marks
The Memory's withered flower;
The sailor's lay, in peaceful bay,
With gladsome mirth rings out;
But when the heavy anchor's weighed,
He gives as blithe a shout.
Then why not we as merry be,
In this our parting strain,
And trust as gallant sailor's do,
To make the port again!

Remarkable Sagacity of a Horse.--In the stable burned on Wednesday were two horses, one of which (a mare, belonging to Mr. Hurst) was tied by a strong halter, farthest from the door, with her head near the spot where the fire originated. After her head and eyes were considerably burned, she broke her halter, jumped over the partition bar broke open the door, and made her escape, and by running to the bake-house gave the first alarm of fire. This fact seems to reverse the rule of action in horses similarly situated. Their instincts not only fail them in such cases, but it has been found almost impossible to withdraw them from the flames which were consuming them.--(Albany Journal.

Select Tales

THE MILLER'S MAID.

THERE is a lonely mill close beside the little hamlet of Udorf, near the Rhine shore, between the villages of Ursel and Hersel, on the left bank below Boon.--This mill is said to have been the scene of the following story:

It was on a Sunday morning 'ages long ago,' that the Miller of this mill, and his whole family, went forth to hear the holy mass at the nearest church, in the village of Hersel. The mill was left in charge of a servant girl named Hannchen, or Jenny, a stout-hearted lass, who had lived with him in that capacity. An infant child, of an age unfit for church, was also left in her charge.

The girl was busily employed in preparing dinner for the return of her master and his family, when who should enter but an old sweet-heart of hers, named Heinrich Bottelor. He was an idle, graceless fellow, whom the miller had forbidden his house, but whom Jenny, with amiable perversity, only liked perhaps all the better, because others gave him no countenance. She was glad to see him, and she told him so, too; and, although in the midst of her work, she not only got him something to eat, but also found time to sit down with him and have a gossip, while he dispatched the food set before him. As he ate he let fall his knife.

'Pick that up, my lass,' said he, in a joking way, to the good natured girl.

'Nay, Heinrich,' she replied, 'your back should be more supple than mine, for you have less work to make it stiff. I labor all day long, and you do nothing. But never mind; 'twould go hard with me if I refused to do more than that for you, bad though you be.

This was spoken half sportively, and half in good earnest; for kind hearted as the girl was, and much as she loved the scape grace, she was too honest and industrious to encourage and approve of idleness, and a suspicious course, of life in any one else, however dear to her.--She glanced down however to pick up the knife. As she was in the act of rising however, the treacherous villain drew a dagger from under his coat, and caught her by the nap of the neck, griping her throat firmly with his fingers to prevent her screaming.

'Now, lass,' he said, swearing an oath at the same time, 'where is your master's money! I'll have that or your life, so take your choice.'

The terrified girl would fain have parleyed with the ruffian, but he would hear nothing she could say.

'Master's money or your life!' was all the answer, he made to her entreaties. 'Choose at once,' the grave or the gold!'

She saw there was no hope of mercy at his hands, and her native resolution awoke in her bosom. She was timid at trifles, a scratch was a subject of fear to her; a; drop of blood caused her to faint an unwonted sound in the night filled her soul with fear. But when her energies were aroused by any adequate cause, she proved as her sex have ever done, that in courage, endurance, presence of mind, and in resources of emergency, she far surpassed the coolest and bravest of men.

'Well, well, Heinrich!' she said resignedly, what is to be, must be. But if you take the money, I shall even go along with ye. This will be no home for me any more. But ease your gripe of my neck a little--don't squeeze so hard; I can't move, you hug me so tight--and if I can't stir, you cannot get the money, that's clear, you know. Besides time passes, and if it is to be done at all, it must be done quickly, as the family will shortly be back from Hersel.'

The ruffian relaxed his gripe, and finally let go his hold. Her reasons were all cogent with his cupidity.

'Come,' said she,' 'quick! quick! no delay; the money is in master's bedroom.'

She tripped up stairs, gaily as a lark and he following close to her heels. She led the way into her master's bedroom, and pointed out the coffer in which the money was secured.

'Here. said she, reaching him a key, this will open it at once; and while you are tying it up. I shall just step to my own apartment and get a few things ready for our flight, as well as my own little savings for the last five years.'

The ruffian was thrown off his guard by her openness, and apparent anxiety to accompany him. Like all egotists, he deceived himself, when self-deceit was most certain to be his destruction.

'Go lass,' said he, 'but be not long, this job will be done in a twinkling.'

She disappeared at the words. He immediately opened the chest, and was soon engaged in rumaging its contents.

As he was thus employed, however, absorbed in the contemplation of his prey and eagerly occupied in securing it on his person, the brave hearted girl stole down stairs on tip-toe. Creeping softly along, she speedily gained the door of the chamber, unseen by him and likewise unheard. It was the work of a moment for her to turn the key in the wards and lock him in. This done she rushed forth to the outer door of the mill, and gave the alarm.

'Fly, fly!' she shrieked to the child, her master's little boy, five years old, the only being within sight. 'Fly, fly to thy father! fly on your life! Tell him we shall all be murdered if he haste not back. Fly, fly!'

The child, who was at play before the door at once obeyed the energetic command of the brave girl; and sped as fast as his tiny legs would carry him, on the road by which he knew his parents would return from church. Jenny cheered him onward, and inspirited his little heart as he ran.

Bless thee, boy--bless, thee! she exclaimed, in the gladness of her heart.--'If master arrives in time, I will offer up a taper on the altar of our blessed lady of Krentzburg, by Boon!'

She sat down on the stone bench by the mill door to ease her over excited spirit, and she wept, as she sat, at the thought of her happy deliverance.

'Thank God!' she ejaculated, 'thank God for this escape. O, the deadly villain!--and I am so fond of him too!'

A shrill whistle from the grated window of the chamber in which she had shut up the ruffian Heinrich, caught her ear, and made her start to her feet.

'Diether! Diether! she heard him shout, catch the child, and come hither! I am fast. Come hither! Bring the boy here, and kill the girl!'

She glanced hastily up at the casement from which the imprisoned villain's hand beckoned to some one in the distance, and then looked anxiously after her infant emissary. The little messenger held on his way unharmed, however, and she thought to herself that the alarm was a false one, raised to excite her fear and oversome her resolution. Just, however, as the child reached a hollow spot in the next field--the channel of a natural drain, then dry with the heat of summer, she saw another ruffian start up from the drain, and catching him in his arms, hastened directions of his accomplice. In a moment she perceived her danger, and in a moment more she formed her future plan of proceeding. Retreating into the mill she locked and double bolted the door--the only apparent entrance to the edifice every other means of obvious access to the exterior being barred by strong iron gratings fixed against all the windows--and then took her post at the upper casement determined to await patiently either the master's return, and her consequent delivery from that dangerous position, or her own death, if it were inevitable.

'Never,' said she to herself, 'never shall I leave my master's house a prey to such villains, or permit his property to carried off before my eyes by them, while I have life and strength to defend it.'

She had hardly time to secure herself within, when the ruffian from without, holding the helpless child in one hand, and a long sharp knife in the other, assailed the door with kicks, and curses and imprecations of the most dreadful character.

'Confound thee,' he cried, applying the foulest epithets of which the free-speaking Teutonic language are so copious; open the door or I'll break it on ye.'

'If you can you may,' replied the noble hearted girl. 'God is greater than you, and in him I put my trust.'

'Cut the brat's throat!' roared the imprisoned ruffian above; 'that will bring her to reason.'

Stout hearted as poor Jenny was she quailed at the suggestion. For a moment her resolution wavered; but it was only for a moment. She saw that her own death was certain, if she admitted the assailant, and she knew that her master would be robbed. She had no reason to hope that the life of the infant would be spared by her compliance. It was to risk all against nothing. Like a discreet girl, she consequently held fast in her resolve to abide as she was, while life remained, or until asistance should reach her.

'An ye open not the door,' shouted the villain from without accompanying his words with the vilest and the fiercest imprecations, 'I'll hack this whelp's limbs to pieces with my knife, and then burn the mill over your head. 'Twill be a merry blaze, I trow,'

'I put my trust in God,' replied the dauntless girl. 'Never shall ye set your foot within these walls whilst I have life to prevent it.'

The ruffian laid the child on the ground while he sought for combustibles wherewith to execute his latter threat. In his search he espied the only possible clandestine entrance to the building. It was a large aperture in the wall, communicating with the great wheel and the other machinery of the mill, and was a point entirely unprotected, for the reason that the simple occupants had never supposed it feasible for any one to seek admission through such a dangerous inlet. Elated with his discovery, the ruffian returned to the infant, and tying the hands and feet of the child threw it on the ground, even as a butcher will fling a lamb destined for the slaughter, to wait his time for slaying. He then stole back to the aparture, by which he hoped to effect an entrance. All this was unseen by the dauntless girl within. In the meanwhile her mind was busied with a thousand cogitations. She clearly perceived that no means would be left untried to effect an entrance, and she knew that on the exclusion of her foe depended her existence. A thought struck her.

'It is Sunday,' said she to herself; 'the mill never works on the Sabbath; suppose I set the mill a going now? It can be seen afar off; and happily my master, or some of his neighbors wondering at the sight may hasten hither to know the cause. A lucky thought!' she exclaimed. No sooner said than done. Being all her life accustomed to millgear, it was but the work of a moment for her to set the machinery in motion: A brisk breeze which sprang up, as it were, by the interposition of Providence, at once set the sails flying. The arms of the huge engine whirled round with fearful rapidity; the great weel slowly revoled on its axle; the smaller gear turned, and creaked and groaned accordingly, as they came into action; the mill was in full operation.

It was in that very instant that the ruffian Diether had succeeded in squeezing himself through the aparture in the wall, and getting safely lodged in the interior of the great drum wheel. His dismay, however was indiscribable when he began to be whirled about with its rotation, and found that all his efforts to but a stop to the powerful machinery which set it in motion, or to extricate himself from his perilous situation, were fruitless. His cries were most appalling; his shrieks were truly fearful; his curses and imprecations were horrible to hear. Jenny hastened to the spot, and saw him caught like a reptile as he was, in his did not liberate him. She knew that he would be more frightened than hurt, if he kept within his rotary prison; and she knew also that, unless he attempted to escape, there was no danger of falling out of it, even though he were insensible and inanimated all the while. In the mean time, the wheel went round and round, and the ruffian along with it, steadily and unceasingly too. In vain did he implore her pity on his helpless condition; in vain did he pray to all the powers of heaven, and adjure all the powers of hell to his aid. She would not hear nor heed him; and unheard and unheeded of them likewise, muttering curses, he was whirled round and round in the untiring wheel, until at last, feeling and perception failed him, and he saw and heard no more. He fell senseless on the bottom of the wheel; but even then his inanimated body continued to be whirled round and round, as before, the brave girl not daring to trust to appearances in connection with such a villain, and being, therefore, afraid to suspend the working of the machinery, or stop the mill gear and tackle from running at the fullest speed.

A loud knocking at the door was shortly after heard, and she hastened thither. It was her master and his family, accompanied by several of their neighbors. The unaccustomed appearance of the mill sails in full swing on the Sabbath, had, as she anticipated, attarcted their attention, and they had hastened home from church for the purpose of ascertaining the cause of the phenomenon. The father bore his little boy in his arms; he had cut the chords wherewith the child was tied, but he was unable to obtain, from the affrighted innocent, an account of the extraordinary circumstances that had occurred.

Jenny, in a few words, told all; and then the spirit which had sustained her so long and so well, while the emergency lasted forsook her at once as it passed away. She fell senceless into the arms of the miller's eldest son, and was with difficulty recovered.

The machinery of the mill was at once stopped, and the manimate ruffian dragged forth from the great wheel. Toe other ruffian was brought down from his prison. Both were then bound, and sent off to Boon under a strong escort, and in due course, came under the hand of the executioner.

It was not long before Jenny became a bride. The bridegroom was the miller's son, who had loved her long and well, but with a passion previously unrequited. They lived thenceforth happily together for many years, and died at a good old age, surrounded by a flourishing family. To the latest hour of her life, the brave hearted woman would shudder as she told the tale of her danger.

Late Foreign Intelligence.

Arrival of the Hibernia.

9 Days later fom London.

The steamer HIBERNIA, Capt. Ryrie, arrived at Boston on Sunday, 17th inst., at half past twelve o'clock, bringing Liverpool dates to the 5th of August, her day of sailing. The intelligence, though interesting, is destitute of any very striking importance. The prevalence of cold damp weather continued to excite considerable anxiety concerning the coming harvests, and in consequence of the doubt thus created a marked rise had taken place in the Corn markets of the Kingdom.

Nothing has transpired in England, since the arrival by the Great Britain, of any striking interest. The session of Parliament is rapidly drawing to a close. The King of the Netherlands absorbs the attention of the Court and the Court department of the London papers is filled with details of his movements. He dined with the Duke of Wellington on Sunday the 3d.

The London TIMES of the 4th has the following paragraph:

The new American Minister.—The Hon. Louis M'Lane, the new American Minister at this Court, has arrived at Thomas's Hotel, Berkeley square. Mr. M'Lane was favorably known here as Minister, 15 years ago, and his being selected at this important juncture will, it is hoped, be found beneficial to the interests of both countries. The fact of his having filled the two highest offices of the state (if we except the Presidency) attests the high opinion entertained of him in his own country.

Paris papers of the latest dates express apprehensions of another outbreak in Switzerland. Great excitement has been caused by the murder of M. Leu, of Ebersol, the leader of the Jesuit party in Lucerne, who was found dead in his bed, deprived of life by a pistol shot. It has been ascertained, however, that the crime was perpetrated by a laborer who had been in his employ, and who had borrowed money from his master. A demand for its repayment led to the commission of the bloody deed. The murderer has been apprehended.

From France there is little news of interest. The Paris papers announce the death of the wife of Mr George Catlin, well known in this country by his Indian paintings and histories. The fetes, celebrating the three days of the Revolution, passed off without any noteworthy event and with comparatively little enthusiasm.

The London Globe of the 1st, notices the "disposition to resume the bullying tone on the subject of Oregon which is supposed to be connected with the "government at Washington," quoting from the U. S. Journal passages to give color to its comments. It closes its article with this paragraph:

We hope Mr M'Lane's mission may prove to indicate more reasonable dispositions on the part of his government than those put forth by their organs on the subject of the Oregon. We are, however, satisfied that to make up our minds on the essential points of our right and interest, and shew determination to maintain them, is the only way with Brother Jonathan. He will not prefer war with England to compromise; neither should we—so far as we do not compromise the essentials of our right and our interest in the matter.

The arrival of the Overland Mail brings later intelligence from China and the East. The Hong Kong Register contains an account of a mutiny on board the ARIEL, on her way from Amoy to Hong Kong with about $100,000 of specie on board. In the afternoon Capt. Macfarlane went below, being indisposed to his cabin for rest. At half past eight the chief officer, Mr Wilkinson, called to him in an unusual tone and told him he was "wanting on deck." On going up the companion was found closed by the mate and gunner, who were each armed with a brace of pistols. They demanded that the Captain should run the vessel to Tuqapore, proposed to him to join them in converting her into a pirate and offered to divide the money then on board. He refused to accede, although they told him the crew were all with them. He endeavored to dissuade them from their scheme, but to no purpose, though they offered to spare his life. He was confined in his cabin until the afternoon of the next day, when the steward told him the Manilla men were not in the plot, but that they intended to rise upon the mate and gunner and regain the possession of the ship. The Register says:—About 10 o'clock they had matured their plans, and although without other arms than the rammers of the guns and their knives, they attacked the mutineers, at the same time enabling the captain to get on deck through a window, and arming him with the cook's axe. The fight was soon over, the mate being knocked down with a hammer, and also cut with knives; the gunner took refuge in the cabin, raising the hatch which covered the magazine, and threatening to blow up the ship. Capt. Macfarlane had by this time got possession of a fowling piece, one barrel of which was loaded; with it he fired and wounded the gunner in the thigh. The poor wretch cried out for mercy, but still threatening to blow up the ship. A lasso was got ready and thrown over his head, with which the crew hauled him on deck and secured him. The mate died of his wounds. The gunner was brought here, and has been committed for trial, after an examination before Mr Hiller, the acting marine magistrate. It is pleasing to state that after the affray was over, and the ship's course was again shaped for Hong Kong. Capt. Macfarlane mustered the crew, and offered up prayers and thanksgiving for their deliverance from eminent danger.

The Madras record notices the arrival there of 29 thugs, fettered and hand cuffed, to await their transportation.

The French papers still continue their comments on the annexation of Texas.

The Courier very strangely remarks that "the policy of the United States backed by the French Minister had triumphed" over Mexico and England. It adds that England will doubtless acquiesce, though it thinks she will take occasion to revenge herself by taking high ground on the Oregon question. There seems to be considerable anxiety on the part of the Paris press, lest the course of the French government in regard to annexation should create dissatisfaction in the United States.

The Journal des Debats mentions, that during two days the Custom House officers had seized in Paris, English smuggled manufactures to an enormous amount. In one tailor's shop alone, a seizure of "macintoshes" to the amount of 200,000 francs was made.

The Moniteur Algerien of the 26th ult. announces, that Marshall Bugeaud embarked for Dellys on the 23d, to take the command of the expedition directed against Ben Salem. The disarmament of the inabitants of the Ouarensenis and Dahara was still proceeding. Hadj. Hamet, the Aga of the Ouarensenis appointed by the French, on returning from the marriage of his son (with a young woman of Masouna,) was unexpectedly attacked in the defile of Meran by a party of Ibeabs, who killed the Aga and 12 of his followers, wounded 20, and dispersed the remainder. A detachment of 30 French spahis, given to the Aga by Colonel St. Arnaud, as an escort of honor charged the enemy and attempted to recover the body of the Aga, but being overpowered by numbers, they retired, leaving five of their body on the field, and bringing off 13 wounded.

Marshal Bugeaud, on being informed of the treachery of the Ibeahs, had decreed the transportation of the tribe to some distant part of the regency, and the confiscation of their territory. Colonel Pelissier embarked for Dellys on the 21st and was to accompany Marshal Bugeaud in his expedition.

Advices from Beyrout bearing the date of the 12th of July, announce that the affairs of the Lebanon were more satisfactory; hostilities had ceased, and it was expected that an arrangement would take place suitable to the present state of that country. The unanimity of the five [illegible] tive and precise instructions of the Porte, had produced beneficial results. The Turkish Governor had made a certain display of kind feelings towards the Christians; and it was asserted that from his example Hassib Pasha and Hussein-Bey, who commanded the Mitin district, had granted protection to the Maronites.

A terrible and most disastrous collission occurred on the Black Sea on the night of the 11th of July. Two Turkish steamers, the Scutari and the Tidjahret, came in collission. The latter was struck between the forerigging and the engine, with a tremendous shock, and in the hurry of the moment, ignorant which vessel would sink, it was proposed to lash them both together. This was not done, however, and the Tidjahret, dropped a mile astern, soon began to sink. Little could be done to rescue the passengers, of whom one hundred and thirty five perished! About seventy swam to the Scutari and were saved.

As the Scutari approached the wreck she heeled over (the people on the deck like wild maniacs, were visible in the moonlight,) and as the sea sucked her down—as the vortex of water she formed in sinking almost made the Scutari spin round with the motion, there rose a scream of utter horror—a last scream!—which those who heard will never forget. But more impressive still was the passive resignation of the Turks; they sat motionless muttering their prayers; neither by cry nor gesture did they manifest any consternation! In impassive silence—amid the shrieks of despair of Christians—the fatalists met their frightful doom. From the first shock to the sinking of the vessel not more than half an hour elapsed.

The captains of both vessels, as also the engineers, were Englishmen. They were perfectly aware of their proximity: it was a moonlight night; and nothing but the utmost carelessness could have caused the catastrophe.

A cabinet order of the King of Prussia decided that considering the number of seceders from the Romish Church is greatly increased, the use of the Protestant Churches may be granted them for the performance of divine worship.

From Kingston, Ja.—Capt Monoly, of the bark Backus, at Savannah, brought Kingston, Ja. papers to the 24th ult.—Ex-President Herard arrived at Port Royal July 19, from Santa Martha. Report says that he has made up his mind to settle in or near Port Antonio for the remainder of his days.

Naval.—The U. S. steamship Princeton, Com'r Engle, from Philadelphia for the gulf of Mexico, was signalized 8th inst, in lat. 26, lon. 80 02, by schr Waccamaw, arrived at Charleston.

By the Mails.

MAMMOTH REMAINS.—A correspondent of the Albany Argus, writing from Newburg, gives an interesting description of the discovery and exhumation of the remains of an immense Mastodon found during the last week, about six miles from that town: An idea of the size of the monster may be formed, when we state that the skull alone weighs seven hundred pounds. The tusks are over nine feet long. Across the hip bones he measures about seven feet. The position of the animal at death, was clearly discernable. He had evidently become mired, and had settled down on his haunches with his fore legs spread out, and in this posture he was found. Under the vertebræ, the contents of his stomach were found to the amount of several bushels, and consisted of leaves, twigs and fragments of the branches of trees, crounched and broken up. As the remains were found imbedded in shell marl, all this was entirely evident.

This is the fourth skeleton of the mammoth that has been discovered in that country, but while all the others have been imperfect (many of the bones never having been discovered,) this one is entire, every bone having been found, even to the small bones of the feet and tail, and in a complete state of preservation; the enamuel on the teeth being as perfect as if in the mouth of a living animal.

Chesapeake and Ohio Canal.—The Directors of the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal Company were in session at Frederick during the whole of the past week. The Herald of that city learns that it is probable, at the next meeting of the Board, which takes place early in September, that a contract will be made for the execution of the work. It is said that the work can be done within the estimates, and payment be made in the state bonds.

From Ponce.—We learn from Capt. Hatch, of the brig Cordelia, 12 days from Ponce, P. R., that the week previous to his leaving there had been several slight shocks of earthquakes, but they had caused no damage and excited no great alarm. The weather had been good, and the prospect favorable for the next year's crop.

Insurance.—The half per cent. advance on premiums to N. Orleans, in reference to the Mexican war, has not become universal among the offices.—On the contrary, we judge that the old rate of two per cent is restored generally a hurricane premium being deemed, on the whole, sufficient to include the Mexican war.—N. Y. Cour. & Enq.

Guadaloupe.—The following announcement is from the Point a Petre Commercial of the 17th ult.:

"The colony has just lost its chief,—Rear Admiral Gourbeyre died on the 7th inst., at half past 5 in the morning. The intelligence of this event, equally painful and unforseen, has thrown the whole town into consternation."

A most desperate and furious row and mob took place on Tuesday night 12th inst. about 12 o'clock, at the colored Bethel Camp meeting, held on the lands of Mr Freeman, in Baltimore county, near Franklin, under the auspices of the Bethel church of Baltimore.

On Monday night a colored man was arrested by the authorities of the camp for misconduct, and kept in confinement until a proper disposition could be made of him. This created some excitement and ill feeling upon the part of his friends who determined to procure his release at the hazard even of a resort to violence. Accordingly, on the night following, a large party, (all colored) numbering probably over one hundred, repaired to the camp ground, armed with clubs, pieces of fence rails, pistols, knives, and other weapons of death. When the hour of midnight arrived, they entered the camp enclosure, making a desperate onslaught. They met with strong resistance, and a general meelee ensued.—One man named Rogers received the ball discharged from a pistol, which penetrated his mouth, producing a wound that has since caused his death. Another named Henry Holliday was severely and dangerously cut over the eye by a blow from a club. A third had his ear entirely cut off, and several others were more or less injured. Several of the offenders were arrested.

This matter requires thorough investigation, and may determine the propriety of allowing camp meetings to be held hereafter wholly under the management of colored persons.

Bursting of a gasometer.—At Alleghany city, Pittsburg, on the evening of the 12th, members of the congregation of the Protestant Methodist church, which is lighted by gas made therein, were raising the gasometer out of water, supposing it to be empty, when the gas ignited from a candle, burst the gasometer with a loud report, and set fire to the gas house. The fire was quickly subdued, but Mr. Herron, the sexton; Mr. Brown, a pedlar; Wm. Karns, postmaster at Allegheny; James Russell, carpenter; Mr. Issler; Henry Williams, grocer, and M. M. Eyser, were dangerously and perhaps some of them fatally burnt. The church was not much injured.

Three sisters of the name of Nottridge residing at Brighton, Eng., were married to three clergymen, at St. Mary's Church Swansea, on the 9th ult.

FOUR DAYS LATER FROM MEXICO.—By the French brig of war Minerve, at Pensacola, we have advices from Vera Cruz to the 27th ult. The Washington Union gives extracts of letters and papers received through her by the Department of State. War is not yet declared, but the Executive has recommended, in its communications to Congress, that war should be declared. With this recommendation was sent a report from the Minister of Finance, asking for powers to enable the Government to contract a loan of fifteen millions of dollars ($15,600,000,) either at home or abroad.

A letter from Pensacola, published by the Union, gives it as the opinion of the commander of the French brig, that "the war proposition is a political measure to assure the election of General Herrera," and that "no one at all acquainted with Mexican politics believes that Congress will in any case acquiesce in it."

The Union publishes the documents referred to with the expression of great astonishment that Mexico is "really determined madly on war with the United States," and with an evident leaning to the opinion that the movement is a mere political manœuvre for the re election of Gen. Herrera. It nevertheless gives in another article under the head "Preparation" an account of the recent naval movements for the protection of our commerce in the Gulf of Mexico. It adds:—

There is no doubt that the administration is taking every precautionary measure to meet any contingency which may occur. It is throwing troops into Texas and providing arms and rations for any additional force which the Texans may bring to our aid. We are collecting strong squadrons in the Gulf and in the Pacific. If Mexico should be mad enough to declare war, and attack us, we shall be prepared to meet her at once.

The conclusion of the report of the Mexican minister of Foreign Affairs communicated to Congress on the 26th of July, (this is the date in the Union, but it should probably be the 21st or 22d,) contains what will undoubtedly be the foundation of any declaration of war which may be made. It is as follows:

In virtue of what is here said, and of the circumstances and document communicated to the chamber relative to this important affair, and under the conviction that the facts to which the first article of the following resolution refers, will be confirmed, his excellency the President, at a council of the ministers, and with their full assent, has been pleased to order me to address the chamber, in the following terms, as approved by the council:

ARTICLE 1. From the moment when the supreme government shall know that the department of Texas has annexed itself to the American Union, or that troops from the Union have invaded it, it [illegible] United States of North America.

ART. 2. The object of this war shall be to secure the integrity of the Mexican territorry, according to its ancient limits, acknowledged by the United States in treaties from the year 1828 to 1836, and to insure the independence of the nation.

God and Liberty!

Mexico, July 21, 1845.

Steamboat sunk and life lost on Lake Erie.—On the morning of the 12th, below Point an Pelle, the London, from Buffalo, and the Kent, on her downward passage, both British steamers, came in contact, with a dreadful crash, and the Kent sunk in a few minutes, with several of her cabin passengers—Rev. James E. Quaw, Redford, Michigan; Mr Chauncey Osborn, Genesee, N. Y.; Mr Seth Deming, Berlin, Conn.; Master Bruce Deming, Galean, W. T.; James Lowden, Ypsilanti, Michigan; two young ladies and a boy from near Ypsilanti, names not known. The names were not all registered, and it is probable that others were lost. All the officers and hands of the boat and 79 passengers, including 10 children, were saved; they belong mostly to Canada West, Michigan, and Western New York; none from New England. Both captains were in their berths when the boats came in contact, it being the mate's watch on deck. The lights of the Kent were seen and recognized approaching six miles off, yet strange to say, no efforts were made to avoid collision until it was too late. The Kent was 180 tons burden, not insured. The London is not much injured.

Heirs wanted.—The Newark Daily Advertiser contains an advertisement requesting all persons of the name of Townley, and descendants of that name to meet at Elizabethtown, N. J. on the 21st inst, to make arrangements for prosecuting their claims to a very large estate in England, which has been ascertained to have been left by will, to heirs in this country. The Boston Chronicle says, that it learns from private information that the inheritance referred to is not reckoned by thousands but by millions of pounds sterling.

IOWA NO STATE YET.—A correspondent of the New York Tribune writing from Buffalo under date of the 16th inst. says that returns enough have been received from Iowa to show that the act admitting that territory as a State of the Union has again been rejected.

FEMALE THIEVES in omnibuses is the last invention in New York. They are said to be very skillful.

EX-COUNTESS AMERICA VESPUCCI.

The Countess Vespucci, who was introduced at Washington a few years ago, where her beauty and dignified appearance created considerable sensation among the magnates of the land, it will be recollected was afterwards discovered to have been the mistress of one of the sons of the King of the French, and was induced by the other members of the royal family to leave Paris and come to this country, supplied liberally with money and recommendations, in order to break the spell with which her presence chained the Duke of Orleans. Her beauty and intelligence added to the protection of the French minister, gained her access to all our wealthy and aristocratic families, and her true character was not developed until suspicion led to enquiry in consequence of the cool treatment she received from the Prince de Joinville, another son of the King of France, who visited this country, and to whom a complimentary ball was given. She had the assurance to attend this ball in company with a member of Congress, but the Prince declined any intercourse with her, and this led to the discovery of the imposition. Shortly after she disappeared from public life, and was taken under the protection of a wealthy man, (formerly we believe a member of Congress,) at Ogdensburg, with whom she has ever since resided. One of the editors of the Detroit Advertiser, writing from Ogdensburg, thus discourses relative to this personage:—

"Out of the business line, its most noticable 'lion' is the ex-countess America Vespucci, who has taken shelter from the ingratitude of Congress under the wing of a Mr. ———, a single gentleman of Ogdensburg. The residence of the soi-disant descendant of old Americus is a semi Italian villa enclosed by convent walls. From the top of our hotel we could look down into its superbly arranged garden with pleasant arbors, and its oriel windows with gaudy colored, projecting sun-curtains—giving a most indolent and Italian air to the mansion and bearing testimony to the national habits and tastes of its mistress. The foot passer along the street, is excluded from the sight of any thing but the upper story of the building by a wall at least ten feet high."—Newburyport Herald.

The iron Light House, built by Messrs H. R. Dunham & Co, for the Spanish Government, to be erected at Porto Rico, is now finished and placed in the coal yard of R. & B. Skidmore, corner of Washington and Franklin streets. It will be lighted this evening. It is a beautiful specimen of workmanship in iron, and cannot fail to gratify those who are fond of witnessing the progress of mechanical skill and ingenuity in our country. The yard will be open for such as wish to view the Light, which is a revolving one, in operation.—N. Y. Jour of Com.

Fatal and Distressing Event.—We record with painful regret a most tragical occurrence that took place last evening, about six o'clock, on Pennsylvania avenue, near Fuller's Hotel; when on account of some misunderstanding between Rufus Elliot, (a brother in-law of Mr J. C. Rives,) William Z. Kendall, (a son of Amos Kendall,) and Josiah R. Bailey, the party first named shot Mr Kendall dead on the spot, and severely shattered the left arm of Mr Bailey, by two discharges of Colt's revolving pistols. Mr. E. then made his escape, and had not been arrested at nine o'clock. There are so many contradictory reports in circulation respecting the circumstances of this melancholy affair that we purposely refrain from giving any of the reports that have reached us in regard to it.—Washington Nat Intelligencer.

Rattlesnakes.—We are informed by General Foster, that six large rattlesnakes have been killed in his neighborhood, the past summer. Two were killed some two months since, by two women who were in the pastures picking berries. One having twelve rattles, was killed last Wednesday, by Mr J. Harrod. But the largest was killed last week, by Mr Very, which on opening, was found to contain eighty young rattlesnakes, alive!! When Mr William Very first saw the snake, the young ones were all out playing around her, but upon notice of his approach, the old snake opened her mouth, and the young ones ran down her throat. We have not the slightest reasons to doubt the truth of this, although it surpasses many of the manufactured snake stories.—Danvers, (Mass.) Courier.

The Xenia Murderers Arrested.—The Dayton (Ohio,) Journal has the following account of the arrest of persons supposed to have been concerned in the murder at Xenia—the authorities of which had previously offered a reward of $1000 for their apprehension.

There was a report from Xenia yesterday, that three men and a boy had been brought in from Brown county, charged with being concerned in the late murders. The boy had in his possession some stuff purchased at Puterbaugh & Allison's on the Saturday preceding the murder—the men were also identified as having been there the same day. It was supposed the boy could be induced to turn State's evidence. This is a report brought by a young man who left Xenia yesterday at 10 o'clock.

P. S. This account is confirmed, with the addition, that the boy confessed that he had himself participated in the murder, in which he implicates the men arrested with him.

NAVAL.—The Washington Union gives the following information as to the naval preparations for the expected contest in the Gulf of Mexico:—

We understand that the Potomac needs no repairs which cannot be made at Pensacola. She is probably already nearly in order for going to sea; and, within a week will doubtless be so.

The Marion, at Boston is nearly ready. The Congress, at Norfolk, will be ready in two weeks, and will sail for the Pacific under Captain Stockton. Commodore Dupont goes out in her on special duty.

The Columbia, at Norfolk, and the United States, at Bostonn (both frigates,) will, as a reserve force, be ready for sea, the one in 30, the other in 40 days, if needed.

The brig Dolphin, at Norfolk, is ready for sea, as also the sloop Dale.

It is to be hoped there will be no occasion for employing any part of this additional force; but it is due to our commerce to be prepared to protect it. The necessary orders for the Pacific station were forwarded long ago. The Cyane will be a valuable aid to our squadron in that ocean; and, with the returning East India squadron, and the Constitution, our commerce in that quarter, seems, for the present, safe enough.

NAVAL.—We understand that orders were received here on Saturday to fit out the United States ship Columbia, now lying at the Gosport Navy Yard.

There is much speculation as to the destination of the frigate, and of the Congress. We should like to see Commodore Ap Catesby Jones appointed to the command of one of these vessels in order to raise his broad pennant again in the Pacific. There is no better man to be found in the navy, for that important station, at this crisis.—Norfolk Beacon.

WARLIKE PREPARATIONS.—Five thousand stand of arms and a large quantity of ammunition have just left our arsenal for Texas, and another order for ammunition will be despatched in a few days.

Two hundred and seventy five new fortification guncarriages are just placed in hand, which, with one hundred just finished, will make quite a tolerable appearance in case of trouble. Besides, we have at this post the following ordnance: 73 42 pounders, 307 32 pounders, 219 24 pounders, 40 18 pounders, 22 12 pounders, 58 eight inch seacoast iron howitzers, 105 twenty-four pound howitzers, 29 ten-inch iron mortars: total 853. Add to this 100 heavy cannon at the navy yard, 38,421 muskets, 3,459 rifles, 138 carbines, 775 swords and sabres.

The Washington arsenal never presented a better apearance than at present. Its well cultivated grounds, commodious workshops, and abundant facilities for every branch of mechanism, and the cleanliness and neatness which are perceptible throughout, all combine to recommend it strongly to the Department for a full share of work which may be dispensed by it.

This post is commanded by Captain Mordecai, of the Ordnance Bureau, who is popular with the worthy mechanics employed there.—Balt. Sun.

Mortality among Horses.—We learn that a great number of horses have died on Long Island within the few days past. Eleven, we are informed, have died at Bath, and six belonging to one of the Brooklyn stage proprietors, and two to a private gentleman. The cause of the disease is not known, but the first symptom is the refusal of the horse to drink. A vetinary surgeon has examined them, but so far without learning any other cause than inflamation thickening and contraction of the gullet. There are quite a number of horses in the neighborhood still ailing.—N. Y. Express.

Dangerous Amusement.—The N. Y. Herald tells a story of the arrest of two females on Monday night, and of their being conveyed to one of the station houses, where they were locked up till morning, being found promenading the streets dressed in male attire. Not having been sufficiently observing of the manners of gentlemen, they cut so awkward a figure, that they were immediately suspected and arrested. It seems that the young lady, who belongs to one of the first families in the city, was jealous of her lover, and determined to watch his movements, and being somewhat fearful of going into the field alone, she requested her older friend to accompany her, to which she assented. They were discharged in the morning, upon promising never to commit a similar folly.

The Anti-Renters. Twelve or thirteen of the most notorious of the anti-renters of Delaware county, New-York, have been arrested and are in custody. A portion of them are implicated in the murder of deputy sheriff Steele.

Painful Accident—A young man named William Blevin, a carpenter, had his leg most shockingly broken, by being crushed between two large granite window sills, in Kilby street, yesterday morning. He was walking on two planks which were laid across two joists, on one of which was a granite sill about six feet by two, and the planks not being sufficiently firm on the joists, slipped off and threw him down between the cellar window and the sidewalk, the sill falling directly on his thigh. He was immediately taken to the hospital, and his thigh bone was found to be broken into several pieces, one or two of which were taken out.—Boston Traveller.

THE NEWPORT MERCURY

Newport.

SATURDAY AUGUST 23, 1845.

THE U. S. CIRCUIT COURT which met in this town on Tuesday last, was further adjourned to Tuesday, the 2d of September.

THE SUPREME COURT of this State will commence its August term in this town, on Monday next.

State Elections.

NORTH CAROLINA.—The election in this State for members of Congress has terminated in the election of 6 Democrats and 3 Whigs, viz:—D. S. Read, J. J. McKay, A. C. Dobbin, J. K. J. Daniel, H. S. Clarke, Asa Briggs, Democrats. James Graham, D. M. Barringer, A. Dockery, Whigs.

In the last Congress the delegation comprised 5 Democrats and 4 Whigs.

KENTUCKY.—In the next Congress the members from this State will be as follows:—J. H. M'Henry, Henry Grider, James F. Bell, Bryan R. Young, Wm. P. Thomasson, Garret Davis, A. Trumbo, Whigs. Lynn Boyd, J. P. Martin, J. W. Tibbatts, Democrats.

Seven Whigs and three Democrats.—In the last Congress the Kentucky delegation was equally divided 5 to 5.

The Legislature is expected to stand 25 Whigs to 13 Democrats in the Senate, and 58 Whigs to 42 Democrats in the House, giving the Whigs 12 majority in the Senate, 16 in the House, and 28 on joint ballot.

INDIANA.—In this State the election for Congress has resulted in the choice of eight Democrats and two Whigs, viz: R. D. Owen, T. J. Henley, Thos. Smith, W. W. Wick, J. W. Davis, J. Pettit, C. W. Cathcart, Andrew Kennedy, Democrats. Caleb B. Smith, E. W. Mc Gaughey, Whigs.

Politically there is no change from the last delegation which stood 8 Democrats and 2 Whigs.

The Legislature will have a democratic majority of ten in the House, and there will probably be a tie in the Senate.

ALABAMA.—Joshua L. Martin has been elected Governor over Nathaniel Terry the regular Democratic candidate The following members of Congress, all Democrats have been elected:—E. S. Dargan, J. Cochran, W. L. Young, W. W. Payne, G. S. Houston, R. Chapman, F. G. M'Connell.

TENNESSEE.—The election in this State was warmly contested. Brown, Dem. has been elected Governor over Foster, Whig, and there will probably be a small democratic majority in the Legislature. The following members of Congress are elected:—Wm. E. Cooke, John Crozier, M. P. Gentry, J. Peyton, M. Brown, Whigs. Andrew Johnson, Alvin Cullum, G. W. Jones. B. Martin, L. B. Chase, F. P. Stanton, Democrats.

This comprises the entire delegation. Politically there is in the aggregate no change from the last delegation, viz:—5 Whigs and 6 Democrats.

☞ CONCERT.—Madame Pico and Signor de Begnis, give a second and last Concert at the Atlantic House, this evening.

OCEAN HOUSE.—We are pleased to learn that the Ocean House is immediately to be re-built on an enlarged and improved plan. Workmen yesterday commenced removing the rubbish.

PROVIDENCE CADETS.—This fine company commanded by Col. J. S. Pitman, arrived here on Tuesday, in the steamer New Haven, and were received and escorted to their camp ground, near the Beach by the Artillery Company, Col. Perry. They were accompanied by the Providence Brass Band.

They returned to Providence last evening.

A Small Mistake.—In copying a paragraph in our last paper relative to the Planet Mars, the word millions after fifty was omitted, making it read fifty miles instead of fifty millions of miles.

The Providence Journal announces the death of Charles Lippitt, aged ninety one, the oldest man in Providence. He was an officer of the revolution, and for several years, at the close of the last century was elected a member of the General Assembly.

ARMY MOVEMENTS.—The schooner Maria M. Klotts, arrived here on Thursday last from New York, to transport Company F., 1st Artillery, from Fort Adams to Pensacola. The Company has been raised to the full standard by detachments from Companies K. and I. On arriving at Pensacola they will relieve a Company of the 7th Infantry, who will then proceed to Texas.

F. Company is under the command of Capt. George Nauman, Lieuts. Wm. H. French, and James M. Brannan.

A detachment of nineteen horses from Company R., left here on Tuesday evening per steamer Neptune, in charge of Lieut. Roland, to join Capt. Duncan's light Company of the 2d Artillery. Capt. D's Company thus strengthened will start immediately for the expected seat of War.

Broke Jail on Monday evening last about eight o'clock, a prisoner calling himself George Davis, alias Brewster. He effected his escape by wrenching the fastening on the inside the door from one of the staples, through which the bolt runs, and sawing off the other staple with a main spring saw, thus enabling him to open the door and escape through the main entry while the family were engaged in another part of the house. The bolt it is ascertained was nearly sawed off the night previous to his escape, but was done with so little noise as not to be heard by the Jailor or his family, and so neatly done as not to be perceived in the day time. He is the individual brought to this town by officer Clapp, of Boston, on a charge of having purloined a diamond breast pin from a boarder at the Ocean House, valued at one hundred and seventy five dollars. The Diamond is now in the custody of the Court, together with a small sum of money taken at the same time.—Herald of the Times.

IMPORTANT SUIT.—We understand that a writ was issued out of the U. S. District Court, on the 11th inst., directed against the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal Company, and put into the hands of the U. S. Marshal, to recover the sum of $1,500,000, at the suit of Messrs Letson & Rutter contractors for the work.

Balt. Sun.

Remarkable Escape.—The passenger train on the Charleston and Columbia Rail Road ran over a cow on the 12th inst, by which the tender and baggage car were thrown off an embankment some thirty feet. The passenger cars were thrown off the track, but fortunately did not go down the bank. No lives were lost, and wonderful to relate, no person sustained any injury.—N. Y. Courier.

Intemperance, says the Salem Gazette, is on the increase among us, and the sad state of things is attributed to the expectation that our License Laws will be declared, by the United States Supreme Court, to be unconstitutional.

FATAL ACCIDENT.—A young lad, son of Mr. L Willett, of Ipswich, lost his life a few days since by a rather singular accident. He had fallen out of bed one morning last week, and received a trifling injury; and on Sunday was playing about the house with an elder brother, when, as he was passing through a narrow entry or doorway, he struck his head with such force against one side as to throw him against the opposite one, breaking two or three of his ribs, and causing his death in a short time.

Salem Advertiser.

Extension of Morse's Telegraph.—We learn, says the Baltimore Argus, that arrangements have been made to commence constructing the line of telegraph from Baltimore to Philadelphia, on the 1st of October next. By the 15th of October it is expected that the line from Philadelphia to New York will be ready for operation. We will, no doubt now, have a continuous line of telegraph from Washington to New York in operation by the beginning of the session of Congress in December, when there will be seen a complete revolution in the "news world."

The Nauvoo Temple.—The Neighbor gives the following as the height of the steeple of the temple of the Latter Day Saints in Nauvoo. The temple is covered in, and the steeple will be finished shortly:

From the ground to the top of the eaves,	60 feet.
From the eaves to the top of the attic,	16 1-2
Tower,	12 1-2
Belfry,	20
Clock section,	10
Observatory,	16
Dome,	13 1-2
Balls and rod,	10
Total,	158 1-2

130 of which is now raised.

New Haven Herald.

A fatal Duel.—The New Orleans Picayune says that a fatal duel was recently fought near that city, between a Pole, said to be a teacher of the small sword exercise, and a shoemaker, in which both were killed on the spot.—They fought with pistols at five paces distance, and at the first fire both fell.

From the Albany Argus of the 20th inst.

The Deleware Outrage.

We have verbal information of an interesting and gratifying character from a gentleman who left Delhi on Sunday.

When our informant left, more than forty persons had been brought in by the several posses, from different quarters—some of them arrested as witnesses, but the greater portion of them, (between 30 and 40,) proved to have been concerned as principles or subordinate abettors, in the outrages that resulted in Steele's death.

Our last account gave information of the arrest of 22 or 23 only. Of the rest six were brought in by Timothy Corbin, jr. on Sunday—four of whom admitted that they were present at Earl's, armed and disguised, when Steele was shot.—Among the six were the two Sanfords, father and son—at whose house Scudder stayed the night before the sale. Mr Lush was another—at whose house Scudder stopped the day of the sale, and where he and others disguised themselves before going on the ground.

Mr Corbin also sent in on Saturday, David Scott, of Bovina, who, it is in proof, furnished a wagon to transport arms and Indians to the ground.

Mr Burhans, brought in two persons suspected of being concerned in the outrage at Earl's,

It is in proof, from the wife of Earl and a woman employed at his house, that Earl furnished the Indians with provisions on the morning of the sale, and, among other things, mutton, potatoes, bread, butter, in considerable quantities.

A Mr Reeside, one of the prisoners, after some equivocation, finally confessed that he was on the ground at the time of Steele's death, in disguise and armed, and that he acted as a chief on the occasion, under Scudder, the head chief or sachem.

It is also in proof that Squires, at whose house were found the pistols taken from Corbin in September, and the 10 Indian disguises, told Scudder on the day of the sale, "now is the time to strike the fatal blow—now or never."—One of the ten disguises found at Squire's house has been identified by young Northrop, (the son of the man who confessed to his having acted as chief on the day of sale,) as the dress which he (Northrop) wore on that day. He states farther that this dress was furnished him by Scudder and was after the murder returned by him to Scudder.

Nothing we learn can exceed the alacrity and spirit with which the farmers have come up to the work of sustaining the majesty of the law, and bringing the offenders to justice

Factory Girl's Savings.—The amount of money deposited by female operatives in the Lowell Saving's Bank, is equal to twelve hundred and fifty dollars for every Factory girl in the place. Some of them have saved two thousand dollars each, the interest of which, at seven per cent, would support them for life. Two thousand poor working girls in New York are barely able to support themselves, without saving any thing.

Insanity in the United States.—The American Journal of Insanity states that there are 23 Asylums for the insane in the United States, containing two thousand seven hundred and sixty three patients. Rhode Island and New Jersey are building asylums. Deleware, North Carolina. Louisiana, Alabama. Mississippi, Missouri, Michigan, Indiana, Illinois and Arkansas, are destittute of any such establishments.

A Matrimonal Speculator.—The Newark Eagle cautions its female readers against the arts of a man who is traveling about the country and contracting marriages. He has already several wives.

Children Killed by Rum.—The Hagerstown (Md.) News, states that a few days ago a dissipated man named Mc. Afee, living in the South Mountain, in Washington County, came to Smithburg on business, and, as was usual, took home with him a jug of Whiskey. The whiskey was deposited in the house, within the reach of children, two of whom, in the absence of their parents, partook of it freely. On the return of the mother, she found her children in the agonies of death, foaming at the mouth, their faces horribly discolored, and so bloated as almost to defy recognition, and in her presence they died an awful and premature death.

Stage Accident.—On Sunday morning the 10th inst., an accident happened to the mail stage while descending the Buck Mountain, near Wilkesbarre, Pa. The stage had but just commenced the descent, when the shoes became loose from the wheels, and the coach ran against the horses; this frightened the animals, and they set off at a full gallop, which ended in the coach being upset and dashed to pieces. The driver had his leg fractured and his back badly hurt, and is said to have died of his injuries. There was a full load of passengers, but fortunately they escaped without injury.

FATAL ACCIDENT.—Mrs. Jackman lost her life on Friday evening, in a melancholy manner. She had stepped out, with the intention of visiting a neighbor who was sick, and on the way, being either assailed or alarmed by a dog, stepped into a door to escape him, and in her haste opened a door leading to the cellar, instead of one leading to the chamber, was precipitated down the stairs, breaking her neck in the fall, and was taken up dead.—Newburyport Herald.

"IS IT A HUMBUG."

The Patent Galvanic Rings and

CHRISTIE'S

MAGNETIC FLUID.

DR. CHRISTIE promised the American Public when he introduced his discovery, that it should be tested solely by its merits—Thousands of foreign certificates might readily have been presented, but it was believed that it would be more satisfactory to await some revision here, which might prove decisive as to its truth and efficacy. It is therefore with a feeling of pleasure that the following home certificates are presented to the public, which are selected from several others of a similar description, and have been voluntarily tendered by the respective parties.

The first is an extract from an editorial which appeared on the 24th inst, in the Albany Daily Citizen—J. Stanley Smith, Esq., Editor.

"The Patent Galvanic Rings, which are making such a stir in the world just now, are a novel invention of this age of inventions."

"With regard to their efficacy, we can say that two or three cases have fallen under our notice, which have favorably impressed our minds. The first is that of a highly respectable merchant of New York, who declared to us that their use speedily relieved him of a cough, seated pain in the side, and many symptoms of a pulmonary complaint, and he is now entirely well. The second that we shall notice, is that of a young man named Robbins, a resident of this city, who about one year since was visited with an attack of Paralysis, which affected the whole of one side of his body. We accompanied a medical friend to his residence, No 36 Beaver street, on Saturday, to inquire into his case. We found that he had been deprived entirely of the use of one arm and leg, and that sensation had been lost to the whole side of the body. He had been unable to use the leg in walking, or the arm in eating, and the physicians said they could not help him. Within a few weeks he had worn two and four of Dr. Christie's Galvanic Rings, and used the Magnetic Fluid, and the effect upon his paralytic limbs is astonishing. The deathlike coldness left them, the numbness began to give way to many sensations of returning life and feeling, perspiration came out freely, and he has been rapidly gaining, and while before he wore the Ring, he was unable to articulate distinctly, walk or feed himself, yet now he talks freely, rides out, walks some, and for the most part is able to help himself. These cases, coming to our personal knowledge, certainly testify to the merits of Dr. Christie's Galvanic Rings and Magnetic Fluid."

DR. CHRISTIE:—I have been severely afflicted for the last eight years, with cramp in my legs and thighs, frequently suffering the most excruciating pains, the cords of my legs having contracted into knots. I have tried every "remedy" that I have ever heard of without the least success. In truth, I seemed only to be getting worse. From a favorable account which I accidentally heard, I was induced to try the effect of your galvanic Rings and Magnetic fluid. In less than 24 hours after wearing two of the Rings, one on each hand, the severe pain had effectually left me, and two weeks having now elapsed without any recurrence of my complaint, I believe a cure has been effected by your discovery, and deem it a duty to inform you of the fact, and state my willingness to have it made public. My wife has been severely troubled with Chronic Rheumatism, affecting her in various parts of the body, which has been cured, as she believes effectually, by the use of the Rings and the Magnetic Fluid, after a trial of but a few days. I shall feel pleased in satisfying the incredulous of the truth of the above on personal application.

SAMUEL SHIELDS.

155 Eldridge street.

New York, June 25, 1845.

New York, June 23, 1845.

DR. A. H. CHRISTIE:—Dear Sir—I have from my childhood been afflicted with almost constant nervous headache and rheumatic pains in my legs and arms. I have often suffered so intensely that it has prevented me from following my usual occupation and frequently destroyed my appetite. My nervous debility and weakness has consequently been so great that after having tried almost everything without any relief, I gave up in despair. I was recommended to try your Galvanic Rings and Magnetic Fluid, and only at a friend's urgent solicitation was induced to do so. Its effect upon my system was almost miraculous. After a few hours the application appeared to strengthen my nerves, relieve me of my headache, and I have had no other relapse of the Rheumatism or any pains since the first day. I would therefore, unhesitatingly recommend your Galvanic Rings and Fluid to those afflicted as I have been.

Respectfully

JACOB A. OGSBURY, 162 William st.

☞ These certificates are published for the purpose of inspiring an honest confidence in his discovery which Dr. Christie believes it deserves. If it were necessary, many others would be given, which may be seen at the Office, 134 Fulton street. In all kinds of Rheumatism and Nervous Complaints, the beneficial effect is certain and lasting, and in all cases where the Galvanic Batteries and Magnetic Machines are recommended, the Galvanic Rings and Magnetic Fluid will be found equally beneficial, much safer, and twenty times as cheap. The only place in New York to obtain the genuine article is at Mr. Christie's Office, 131 Fulton street (Sun Building.)

To guard against fraud Dr Christie appoints but one agency in each of the cities of the United States. The only agent in Newport is R. J. TAYLOR, Thames street.

DALLEY'S

Original and Only Genuine

Magical Pain Extractor,

THE WONDER OF THE AGE!

THIS medicine has more power and influence over disease than any other yet known. It entirely conquers Pain, Fire, Scar, Inflamation & Mortification. Fame, with her million tongues, says, "Next to the Bible, let it be prized",—No human physician or parent should be without it a moment. The pains of the Worst Burns are stopped instantly by it, and healed without scar. It is also a sovereign remedy for the following diseases:—

Piles both Blind & bleeding, Bronchitis, Felons, Sore Eyes, Fever Sores, Broken Breasts, Sore Nipples, Sore Throat, Scald Head, Salt Rheum, Wounds, Tic Doloreux, Barber's Itch, Bruises, Ague in Face, Spinal Weakness, Chapped Hands, Swellings, Rheumatism Inflamatory and Chronic, Strains, Constipation & Inflamation of the Bowels,

And, in fact, any thing that is sore & painful

The universal celebrity of this medicine has excited the dupidity of certain worthless persons, who endeavor to palm off a worthless or imitation article.—Therefore OBSERVE that every box of the genuine has the written signature of H. Dalley, the proprietor, on the wrapper. All others are spurious, and should be avoided. Only Depot for the United States, No. 128 Fulton street, New York, where all orders must be addressed.

For sale in Newport, by R. J. Taylor, No. 148 Thames st., and Dr. R. R. Hazard, Washington Square.

From the Olive Branch, May 25, 1845.

DANDELION AND TOMATO PANACEA.—A very useful article with the appellation at the head of this notice, is prepared by Dr. James Kidder, of East Boston. We have not been in the habit of admitting notices of any kind of crack medicines, pills and nostrums, and the thousand and one cure-alls advertised in the newspapers, we heartily despise, with their venders, and we have ever done what our position enabled us to save the community from being poisoned and fleeced by these mercenary pretenders. But we consider Dr. K's Panacea entirely of a different character. We have seen the happiest results from the use of it in a large number of cases. It is used to invigorate a debilitated system and to purify the blood; it is highly useful in cases of dispepsia, indigestion, loss of appetite, palpitation of the heart, faintness, nervous and sick headache, jaundice, cholic, and such diseases of the skin as eruptions, produced by salt rheum or Barber's Itch and other cutaneous diseases of the same class, particularly so for scrofula. To many of these diseases this panacea effects an immediate or early cure, and in most cases affords, relief. But we have said more than we intended of any medicinal prescription.—It can be had of Dr. Kidder, and his agents.

Read this Certificate, just received.

TUTTONBOROUGH, N. H., May 2, 1845.

Dr. KIDDER—Sir: I take this method to express my gratitude to you, for the valuable services I have received from the use of the Dandelion and Tomato Panacea. I have been suffering from the ravages of a violent humor, which had baffled the skill of the physicians, and which had made rapid inroads upon my constitution. My business had been neglected for about 18 months, and I was depressed and discontented. Chance placed in my possession one of your advertisements of the Dandelion and Tomato Panacea; I felt induced to try it, although I had but little faith in its virtues, as several other very highly recommended medicines had failed to restore me to health. But to my surprise, the first bottle produced most beneficial effects. I obtained a second, and before that was all gone, my humor had departed, my appetite returned, my spirits resumed their elasticity, and I am now well and hard at work on my farm.

This certificate I give uncalled for, and solely for the purpose of informing those who are suffering, that relief can be found for their afflictions, and that, too, from the Dandelion and Tomato Panacea. Yours, &c.

EPHRAIM P. DUNCAN.

NEWPORT, S. S.—Clerk's Office, Supreme Judicial Court, August 8, a. d. 1845.

WHEREAS Benjamin C. Eddy, Trader, and Michael E. Peckham, Laborer, of the town and county of Newport, have filed in this Office this day, their Petitions praying for certain reasons therein stated, for the benefit of an Act passed at the June Session, a. d. 1828, entitled "An act for the relief of Insolvent debtors," may be extended to them. This is therefore to notify the Creditors of the said Eddy and Peckham, to appear before said Court, to be holden at Newport on the 4th Monday in August, A.
